FURTHER GUIDANCE

Educational Visits Co-ordinator (EVC)

The Head teacher is responsible for coordinating all educational visits, both residential and non-residential. All proposed visits, even those of a short duration and taking place just outside the school grounds, should be discussed with her at an early stage of planning.

It is essential to have undertaken a preliminary visit and risk assessment prior to any visit and to have obtained adequate supervision for the group size involved. All supervisors should be adequately briefed about their precise role and about the children for whom they are responsible.

All visits are planned in accordance with LA Guidance and School Policy.

Accident Book

In the event of an accident to a member of staff or child, details of the accident must be entered in the School Accident Book that is stored on the shelf near the playground entrance. The adult who was supervising at the time or witnessed the accident should record details of the accident accurately and as soon as possible after the event. If the accident is of a more serious nature and a child requires treatment by a doctor or parents are called to collect a child, then a 'School Minor Injury Record Form' should be filled out and placed in the file. The head teacher will complete a ARF1 if a child or adult requires hospital treatment.

Head injury

If a head injury has been sustained to a child, the parent or carer should be informed by a telephone call and note home; just in case concussion symptoms should subsequently develop.

Near Misses

Should there be a 'near miss' involving a child or adult (e.g. nearly an accident or a problem with a faulty or dangerous piece of equipment), the head teacher should be informed and she will record the event in the school Risk Assessment folder.

Fire Drill and Evacuation Procedures

The school has a half-termly fire drill and all staff should be familiar with the procedures. Upon hearing the fire alarm, teachers should instruct their class to line up and leave the school building in an orderly manner. Classes should line up on the playground. Before leaving the building, staff should quickly check toilets and cloakroom areas and ensure all doors are closed to prevent the spread of fire.

Once outside, teachers must do a 'head count' and then call a register and account for all children. Children will answer by saying 'yes' and putting their hands up.

If a child is missing the head teacher should be informed immediately.

Alarms will remain sounding until the head teacher or other person supervising gives permission to re-enter school. The time and date of a fire drill, along with the time it has taken, should be recorded in a log stored in the 'Fire' file.

The Head teacher or secretary will also take the 'Visitors' Book' so that all visitors can be accounted for.

Should it be a genuine fire emergency, the school secretary will contact the fire service by dialing '999'.

During fire drills, staff and children will be reminded that on no account should they re-enter the building in the event of a real fire.

Security whilst school is in session

All external doors in school are kept locked whilst the school is in session.

The gates up to school drive way must also be closed and bolted whilst the school is in session. When visitors leave school they should be encouraged to close all gates.

All visitors to school should be encouraged to sign the 'Visitors' Book' located near the school entrance and prominently display a visitor's badge on their person. When leaving, visitors should sign out and return their badge.

Medicine in school

If a child is on a course of medicine and needs to bring it to school, written instructions or a letter should be handed in at the office, detailing precisely how the medicine should be stored and administered. All medicine should also have the child's name clearly displayed. A register of any medicine administered is kept.

Plastic gloves

When administering first aid that involves the possibility of contamination by body fluids, it is essential that disposable plastic gloves are worn. All first aid waste materials should be disposed of in the appropriate yellow plastic bags stored in first aid boxes.

Switching electrical appliances off

It is the responsibility of the class teacher to ensure that all electrical appliances are switched off and unplugged when a room is vacated at the end of the day e.g., computers etc.

Similarly, kettles etc in the staff room should also be switched off at the end of the day when the building is being vacated.

Should electrical items be left switched on, the caretaker should be vigilant when cleaning rooms and switch appliances off if necessary – even if this may risk losing unsaved work on classroom computers.
